A Sensation in the Whittaker case.

WEST POINT, April 19—Superintendent Gaylor, writing expert of the New York post office, created a sensation by stating that he had discovered that the paper handed him numbered 8 and several others were written by the same hand. The officers drew their pistols and declared their intention of taking him dead or alive. As Constable Wrenth came up to the room English thrust a gun through the door and shot, killing him instantly. Constable Volmer then carried Wrenth's body down stairs, and as he entered the yard English shot Volmer. The latter it is thought, will not recover. English gained the woods during the excitement. While he was running District Attorney Nursell shot him in the leg. Company H state volunteers has been ordered out to capture him.

Balloon Ascension at St Louis

ST. LOUIS, April 18—Neal Brayton made another balloon ascension from here in fine style and high wind at 4 10 o clock this afternoon, and at 4 50 was seen passing over Bunker Hill, Illinois, 28 miles distant from here, two to three-quarters of a mile high, going due north. Fun Pending in the Senate.

NEW YORK, April 19—The Sun's Washington special says: A lively tilt between Senators Carpenter and Blaine is expected to occur in the senate to-morrow when the bill for the distribution of the Geneva award will again come up for consideration. Carpenter has the floor for a speech in favor of the insurance companies. Blaine is opposed to Carpenter's theories and of late much bad feeling has been aroused between the two senators. Blaine is too unanimous in his manner and speech to please Carpenter who upon several occasions has ridiculed Blaine for his feeble knowledge of the law. Blaine pays less attention to the deferential [illegible] the courtesy of the senate than any of his associates, and Thurman, Bayard and Carpenter have attempted to squelch the senator from Maine for his alleged imprudence. It is no easy task as these gentlemen have found out and the prospective clash between Carpenter and Blaine is looked forward to with pleasure.

FRIGHTFUL DISASTER

MARSHFIELD MO., DEVASTATED BY A HURRICANE

Many Persons Buried in the Debris and Burned—Forty Bodies Recovered—Aid from Springfield—Etc

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

ST LOUIS April 19—A telegram from Springfield via Vinita and Kansas City to C W Rogers general manager of the St Louis and San Francisco railroad says: A hurricane passed a few miles south of Springfield about [illegible] o'clock last night doing immense damage and killing a great number of people. Deaths are reported on James river six miles south of Springfield, and a great many persons are missing. The train dispatcher of Conway, 14 miles this side of Marshfield, reports arriving there from Springfield at 11 o'clock and says he found a timber [illegible] country from North View seven miles west of Marshfield to the latter point. Trees three feet through were torn entirely out of the ground and telegraph poles twisted off.

From a passenger who passed through Marshfield on the St Louis and San Francisco railroad at 8 0 last night some facts concerning the terrible disaster were gleaned. A man who came to the depot at the edge of town while the train was here reported that at 6 30 o'clock a furious hurricane struck the place and leveled all that part of town lying west of Centre Square flat to the ground. The debris immediately took fire in several places and flames could be seen at some half dozen points by passengers on the train. Forty dead bodies had been taken out and many more were supposed to be buried in the ruins or burned up. There are also many living still imprisoned in the debris of falling buildings. All the physicians of the town are killed excepting two and there was great need of doctors to attend the wounded of whom it was said there were some two hundred. A relief train with twenty physicians and nurses and full supplies left Springfield Mo this morning for Marshfield and probably other trains will arrive during the day. The storm was general in southwestern Missouri and other places probably suffered damage, but as telegraph wires are all prostrated no advices have been received. A violent hail and rain accompanied the wind.

Later from the Ruined Town.

ST LOUIS April 19—At Marshfield brick as well as frame buildings were torn down. A train man just in says: We did not see more than half a dozen people as we came through that town. The place seemed deserted. The doctors and nurses who came on our train from Springfield, about 30 in number went from the depot alone to hunt up the people, there being no one at the depot to receive them. A relief train went from Lebanon to Marshfield at daylight this morning with about 50 doctors nurses and helpers and full supplies of provisions clothing and medicine stores also materials for repairing.

Other Towns Damaged.

CHICAGO, April 19—The line is down at different points between Springfield and Conway, perhaps 10 miles altogether. A new Catholic church at Cuba 90 miles from here was blown down. No damage done to the railroad except the destruction of one small section house. The names of killed and wounded at Marshfield are not received yet telegraphic communication not being restored at this writing. There are also reports here that the city of Granby about 100 miles southwest of Springfield, is greatly damaged and that Warrensburg on the Missouri and Pacific railroad 65 miles this side of Kansas City was badly damaged.

ST LOUIS April 19—The tornado which caused such frightful havoc at Marshfield last night passed entirely through Green and Webster counties, following the course of James river in a northeasterly direction. It struck the St Louis & San Francisco railroad in four places and left it near Frank's station 110 miles this side of Marshfield. That place presents a terrible appearance there not being more than a dozen houses unharmed in the entire town. The courthouse and many other buildings took fire and soon the effects were of dreadful character. At one house two children were found dead and another badly mangled but still alive. The parents could not be found. In another case a woman was lost entirely and seems to have been carried away bodily. No details of the calamity have yet been received. The force of the wind stripped the bark from trees and lifted others entirely out of the ground and poles and wires were carried hundreds of rods into the woods and tied and knotted among the limbs of trees like cotton strings. Everything possible is being done to assist and succor the wounded, not only at Marshfield but other places. Physicians throughout the country are flocking to points most injured and doing all they can to alleviate suffering. Doctors went from Springfield to James River county six miles south as well as to Marshfield and scores of kind hearted people have volunteered as nurses. Captain Rogers, general manager of the St Louis and San Francisco railroad, is sending special trains with relief wherever good can be done and all are doing everything possible to aid the injured and dying.

Improving Yaquina Bay.

The San Francisco Chronicle of the 14th has the following special from Washington:

The secretary of war in response to the senate resolution of the 18th ultimo calling for data respecting the entrance to Yaquina bay Oregon transmitted to the senate a letter from Gen Wright chief of engineers submitting a copy of a letter from Lieut Col C S Stewart senior member of the board of engineers on the Pacific coast and also a report of George W Wood upon the survey of the bay dated Nov 28 1879. From an examination of these it is found that a bar obstructs the entrance which is not fixed in position but is rapidly movable within a rather wide limit. Col Stewart states that the material of which it is composed shifts back and forth under varying forces which act upon it. Its outflow from the bay is not sufficient to keep the entrance free from sand so as to enable a vessel to carry in at low water more than [illegible] feet. He concludes by [illegible] that an artificial channel excavated from deep water inside to deep water outside would not in the opinion of the board of engineers with the data before it remove permanently the obstructions to the entrance.

The One-Man Tendency.

The Albany Evening Journal warns the republicans of New York against the one man tendency in politics. The democracy have been wrecked on the rock of personalism and the Journal says:

The dissatisfaction [illegible] by manifest ones of offensive personalities is rapidly spreading, [illegible] both the great political parties. [illegible] not yet so marked in the republican as in the democratic party [illegible] only be [illegible] the republican party has [illegible] the vital [illegible] [illegible] But like causes [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] effects [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] heritage [illegible] democracy [illegible] day [illegible] [illegible] personal [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

KEARNEY CAGED.

THE SAND LOT BLATHERSKITE IN CONVICT GARB

Last Effort of his Counsel to Evade the Sentence—The Mob Attempts to Rescue their Leader. Etc Etc

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN

SAN FRANCISCO April 19—In the police court this morning prosecuting attorney Blaney asked for a commitment for Dennis Kearney. Judge Rix ordered [illegible] [illegible] and ordered the clerk to make out a commitment to the house of correction, Kearney being [illegible] [illegible] Rix asked Mr Murphy if he was ready to proceed and declared [illegible] Mr Murphy replied that [illegible] defendant and his counsel were in the vicinity of the court and would appear soon. While the clerk was engaged in making out the commitment Kearney with his counsel entered the court.

To Mr [illegible] Judge Rix said: Is the defendant [illegible] [illegible] pay the fine of one thousand dollars [illegible] [illegible] in custody?

Mr Barbour: Defendant [illegible] [illegible] wish to have [illegible] [illegible] in order to have time to go to Los Angeles and secure a writ of habeas corpus and it will only take two days.

Judge Rix—I cannot grant your motion; such proceedings would be unusual and I can see nothing in the case warranting a departure from the rule.

Kearney had taken a seat in one of the front row of chairs and as he heard this last hope of delay destroyed his jaw fell and he sullenly held his head down during the rest of the proceedings.

Mr Barbour then asked—The sentence I believe is that defendant shall pay a fine or go to the house of correction.

Judge Rix—No sir, the judgment of the court is that defendant shall pay a fine and be imprisoned.

Barbour—Well we are not prepared to pay the fine and defendant is here to answer the process of commitment. He won't have to remain in custody until the fine is paid will he?

Mr Murphy—That is a good question to leave for future settlement, Mr Barbour.

After the commitment was made out the bailiff motioned to Kearney to go below to the city prison. Kearney rose and looking around nervously said with a ghastly attempt at a smile: Your honor is the constitutional provision about eight hours a day labor included in that commitment? Judge Rix replied that he did not consider that necessary. The officers of the house would see that he had enough and not too much work. Kearney then went below his brother accompanying him. Both were much depressed. Soon after Kearney accompanied by the superintendent of the house of correction and Officer Price was taken to a hack in waiting on Merchant street. A large crowd of sand lotters were in waiting, who made a rush for the hack as Kearney in charge of the officers entered it. The crowd was driven back by police officers the door closed and Kearney at last was under way for the prison. The latest report is that on arriving at the house of correction he was handed over to the prison barber after which he was presented with a gorgeous striped suit and locked up. An endeavor will be made by the prisoner's counsel to obtain a writ of habeas corpus but it is not likely to be of any avail.

In fact we're a little shy of the good things of this life and it's time winter is letting up a little so we could replenish.

The Umatilla county republican convention was held at Pendleton on the 10th inst. The following ticket was nominated: Representatives W Hales and J Q Wilson; judge J H Sharon; sheriff Lot Livermore; clerk Dan Dwight; treasurer —— Henry; commissioners [illegible] and McFroy; surveyor, S O Thompson; coroner Dr Harris; school superintendent S C Cramer; county central committee, Thos Kirk Capt Martin Frank Johns H McCoy A Mallory G I Neil J L Gulliford L M Waters M C Pettys J Jones E W Oliver F H Bixby J C [illegible] [illegible] and J Erling J K Koontz [illegible] [illegible] Livermore and S C Cramer have declined since the convention but it is not reported that any action has been taken to supply the places thus made vacant. The convention passed resolutions favoring retrenchment and reform and declaring that we believe it would be to the interest of the taxpayers of our county to remunerate our sheriff and clerk by salary instead of by fees; that the [illegible] mode of assessing the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of our state is unjust [illegible] and that we will [illegible] urge the representatives of our county to favor the passage of an act authorizing the election of an assessor in each precinct and that as the division of this county in the near future is probable we oppose the expenditure of any money for public buildings in Pendleton except what is necessary for repairs.

THE BIG LAKE MURDERERS ARRESTED AT KANSAS CITY

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WALLA WALLA April 19—Sheriff James Thompson has received a dispatch from Kansas City announcing the arrest of the murderers of Samuel Brumfield and wife who were recently found so brutally murdered in the Touchet river and near Big Lake. An intense feeling of satisfaction prevails.

[illegible]eleutheros—No, we cannot tell what he measuring experts [illegible] by the means. Probably he was merely measuring out long words as he measured out the stat printing. His open note seems simply to be the work of a tachygraphic and impetuous [illegible] who, envious of a moral celebrity he can never approach, carries his sesquipedalian nugacity to the height of creating symposically the found words which a polysyllabic genius uses with liberty to obligate the tongues of the wordless. Such we should judge or something like it was his crass [illegible] motive. Otherwise we cannot explain it.

WITH SUPPLEMENT
TUESDAY MORNING APRIL 20 1880

THE ELECTORAL COUNT

[illegible] this year there [illegible] a [illegible] for [illegible] The [illegible] will be a [illegible] of the time [illegible] before [illegible] can be fixed in advance [illegible] cases [illegible] now to adopt [illegible] congress provi[illegible] any one certificate of the electoral vote of a state be presented it shall not be rejected except by an affirmative vote of the two houses and that in case of dual returns neither of them shall be counted unless the two houses agree that one of them is the true and valid return. [illegible] will [illegible] matters. It will leave the whole subject open to the arbitrary course of partisan in[illegible]. To [illegible] with it is an admission that the two houses if they desire may reject the vote of any state. Temptations and pretexts are likely to be wanting to [illegible] and when once it is admitted that it may be perpetrated. Again in case of dual returns of course the two houses would agree upon that one which happened to be in accord with the partisan views of the majority. There is no chance of a settlement on such a basis so as to assure fairness and equity. The simple constitutional provision imperfect as it is is a better guide. That provision is brief and not having been framed with a view to contingencies which have since arisen is necessarily unsatisfactory. It simply provides that the president of the senate shall in the presence of the senate and house of representatives open all the certificates and the votes shall then be counted. The same section which contains this clause provides that the electors shall meet in their respective states cast their ballots make a list of the persons voted for and of the number of votes for each which list they shall certify and transmit under seal to the president of the senate at Washington.

The constitutional provision does not declare by whom the votes shall be counted and it is by no means clear that congress should have anything to do with the count. Most persons are probably familiar with the various interpretations put upon this provision of the constitution one class claiming that the president of the senate has the sole power to open the votes as they have come into his hands, in the presence of the two houses that the votes as submitted by him must be counted by the clerks or tellers appointed for that purpose, and that the only remaining duty devolving on him is the declaration of the result. Another class maintains that the two houses have entire control not only over the manner of making the count, but also have the power to decide what are legal votes and to reject those deemed illegal. As matter of fact, the first of these views was adhered to till recently the president of the senate always opening the returns and declaring the result. Owing to disorders resulting from the rebellion the old rule or custom was broken, and of late the practice has become a scramble for partisan advantage in counting the votes. The rule which the democratic members of the committees of the two houses now propose will not mend matters in the least, but will only open a door to flagrant partisan wrongs.

Senator Edmunds recently offered a bill which would be much better. It ought to commend itself to every one who desires a peaceful and honest count. It does not propose to make partisan majorities in congress a tribunal for settling disputes arising in the states in regard to the presidential count, but to leave these to be determined by existing state tribunals and laws, and to provide that the decisions of the states shall be duly respected by congress when the votes are counted. This would be as near an approach to fairness as could well be devised, and ought to suit the most ultra state rights democrat.

The overwhelming result of the English elections in favor of the liberals possesses importance not only for the British empire, but effects a change which has large significance for Turkey, Russia, Austria, Germany, Greece, India and Afghanistan. The issues on which the two parties in Great Britain went to the people, and the victory thereon which the liberals have gained, made it certain that the foreign policy of Great Britain will be materially changed. England virtually holds a protectorate over the Ottoman empire. This will not be withdrawn but there will be much more vigorous insistence than heretofore on reforms by the Turkish government. Had the liberals been in control of the British government it is altogether probable that the war between Russia and Turkey would have been averted, because England would have compelled the porte to introduce those reforms which being denied, gave Russia her pretext of war. Now the Turk will know that he must either carry into effect the improvements demanded and promised, or be abandoned to the tender mercies of the czar. As for Afghanistan, the liberals have steadily declared the war against the ameer as without justification so it is likely the British troops will be withdrawn and an arrangement effected with Russia as to a neutral zone between the Russian frontier and British India. And in general the meddlesome foreign policy of the Beaconsfield government is likely to be wholly abandoned. English journals concede this and it is likely to be one of the great results of the change in the government.

Kansas presents a case in which the Grant boomers make a wry face in taking their own medicine. The republican convention of that state, following the example set by the Grant men in Pennsylvania and New York not only instructed the delegates elected to go to Chicago but refused to allow a couple of districts which wanted to appoint Grant delegates the right to do so. And now it is said that these two districts will send Grant delegates anyhow who will insist on their rights. It is to be hoped they will. If they do it will open a pretty question. Kansas will be called before New York and Pennsylvania. If the district delegates from Kansas be admitted and their right to vote for Grant be acknowledged by the convention, district representation in spite of state instructions will be established and Grant will at once lose half or more of the New York and Pennsylvania vote. Hence the utility of instructions against the ex president by states yet to hold their conventions. When these instructions return to plague their inventors there will be some show for fairness and justice. If other states follow the example of Kansas the result will make the boomers [illegible] who [illegible] by the [illegible] that the people are [illegible] with them sooner enough [illegible]

[illegible] most astonishing phenomenon of the Grant boom is the appearance of the ex stalwart, Gorham of California, as an apostle of peace and reconciliation in the south. He speaks to a Washington correspondent in the name of Grant declaring that the candidacy of the illustrious tourist means that the south is to be reconciled and that sectionalism is to disappear from politics. Unless all the stalwarts [illegible] in [illegible] that [illegible] as Gorham [illegible] should create a [illegible] [illegible] appeared recently [illegible] president [illegible] Grant's [illegible] nation [illegible] United [illegible] this [illegible] with [illegible] shows how little he can [illegible] of [illegible] events [illegible]

[illegible] shows that during the past six [illegible] has been extraordinary [illegible] but the [illegible] of the movement has not been very [illegible] determined until now and the result [illegible] as may well create astonishment. The New York [illegible] a statement showing that from the 1st of September last until the [illegible] of March [illegible] 000 miles have been constructed and 1,741 miles projected. The construction and projection of [illegible] miles should the country experience [illegible] disarrangement during the current year there can be no doubt but that a majority of these new undertakings will be well on to completion [illegible] adding immensely to the transportation facilities of the country and the distribution of population commerce and industry. These enterprises it is calculated will absorb about $2 3 000 000 of capital.

By an English journal which is numbered among the supporters and admirers of Mr Gladstone it is asserted and perhaps with no excess of admiration that as a public speaker and parliamentary debater the great liberal leader has had no equal in England since Pitt and Fox. He combines as no one else of the present generation has done a fervid eloquence a copious and inexhaustible command of language marvelous knowledge a ready and retentive memory and great and varied powers of reasoning. And he has besides an immense moral force through which he is able in a wonderful manner to arouse the popular conscience and guide public opinion.

In New York a lively discussion is in progress over a proposition to tax all church edifices. The state assessor has advised it and a committee of the legislature have drawn up a bill for it. But it appears to meet the opposition of the larger and more influential part of the public press, secular as well as religious. There are few who have studied man and read history who would be likely to insist that morals civilization, culture and progress would be improved by taxing out of existence or converting into stables, circuses and warehouses the temples erected in recognition of man's dependence on a higher power.

Delegates are gathering for the state republican convention. For congress the candidacy seems at present to be between Rufus Mallory and M C George. On the presidential question the preponderance of sentiment is greatly in favor of Blaine. This indeed had already been indicated by the expression of the county conventions. Considerable disposition is manifest to have the delegates instructed so that in no event may the vote of the state be cast against the wishes of the people and in favor of the third term. From some of the counties there are instructions to this effect.

Oregon will be first to hold an election after the Chicago convention. Three days after the result of the convention is announced our state election will take place. There are few republicans who will not deem it important that the state be carried for their ticket in June as well as in November. It therefore behooves the convention which will meet tomorrow to send delegates to Chicago who will be discreet enough and courageous enough to let it be known distinctly that Oregon can not be relied on by the republicans if the ex president is the nominee.

The opinion of Judge Deady in the Ah Lee case on the application for habeas corpus seems the only conclusion which it was possible to reach. We publish a sufficient synopsis of the opinion to indicate the grounds on which it is based. It is a satisfactory termination of a case which otherwise would have been followed by a very embarrassing conflict of authority.

THE PACIFIC

AND SPICE COMPANY

The Daily Oregonian.

TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 20, 1880.

CITY.

THE O. R. & N. CO.—Work is being pushed rapidly by the O. R. & N. company. Chief Engineer Thielsen has every thing in [illegible] construction of the main line from Celilo to Wallula. We shall expect to go from [illegible] and to Walla Walla in twenty two hours by the first of November. Active work is also in progress on a section of road thirty four miles in length beginning at Snake river and running in a northeasterly course to [illegible] in the Palouse country. Mr Henry Villard, president of the company, now here, will remain, it is understood, for several weeks, giving his personal attention to the various parts of the enterprise and [illegible] plans for its extension. Mr Geo. M. Pullman, of the Pullman Palace Car company, also here, has under consideration a proposal to put sleeping cars on the road between Celilo and Walla Walla. This probably will be done. Mr Villard and party will start on a tour of inspection up the Columbia river this morning.

ARRIVAL OF RAILROAD IRON.—The brig Orient, from San Francisco, with 400 tons of railroad iron for the Oregon Railway Company, Limited, has arrived in the river. These 400 tons go to Woodburn or Gervais by the east side railroad to make the narrow gauge extension from thence to Silverton. The second cargo of 500 tons will leave San Francisco within fourteen days and the third cargo of 600 tons about the 20th of May. The [illegible] tons of iron purchased from the United States court will go up the river to [illegible] by the steamer City of Quincy for the Dallas extension. An iron vessel, the Childers, with 1100 tons of English iron left Middleboro on Tees, on March 26th, for Portland for the Narrow Gauge Railway Company, and another vessel left the same place the beginning of this month with 1200 tons, making 4000 tons to arrive between now and the last of September next for that company.

VANCOUVER ROAD.—The new bridge on the Columbia slough is rapidly approaching completion, and it is probable that by the middle of next week it will be thrown open for traffic. The enterprise which has been shown in this undertaking is a credit to all parties concerned. The bridge is 3210 feet in length and rests upon mud sills, but the fears expressed by a few that it is liable to float off at high water are entirely without foundation, as the sills are 2 feet 5 inches above the 76 water mark, the highest on record. In the event, however, of danger being apprehended from this cause, piles will be driven on either side of the bridge to secure it in position.

THE THIRD STORY.—Mention has already been made in these columns of the purpose of Messrs Reed and Failing to add another story to their large brick building at the corner of Front and Stark streets. This is for the purpose of accommodating the constantly increasing demands of the business of Messrs Hodge, Davis & Co., who find the present building inadequate to answer the requirements of their trade. Last Saturday the contract was awarded to Mr Therkelsen. Work will be commenced as soon as the weather shall settle.

RACE COURSE.—The Telegram learns from Mr. Stoddard, captain of one of the boat crews, that the course from the lower point of Ross' Island to Pine street will be marked by planting monuments on each side of the river at both ends of the course, so that a buoy placed in the river between the two monuments marking either terminus may be aligned at any time so as to make the race course of an exact length. The work will be done at the expense of the rowing clubs as soon as the weather will permit.

LECTURE.—Dr. E. I. Bailey, of Vancouver, the medical director of the department of the Columbia, will deliver a lecture at the Unitarian church to-morrow (Wednesday) evening. His subject will be Drainage—one with which Dr. Bailey is very conversant, having carefully and scientifically investigated the matter. It is a question in which the citizens of Portland should feel personally interested, and will doubtless draw a crowded house.

COMMUTATION GRANTED.—Gov. Thayer on Saturday last commuted the sentence of imprisonment of one G. W. Hawkins, a convict in the penitentiary sent from Polk county for four years Dec 11, 1876 for larceny. Reasons assigned for executive clemency, on account of overwork in the blacksmith shop and term of sentence having about expired.

Y. P. A.—The regular meeting of the Young People's Association will be held this (Tuesday) evening in the vestry of the Baptist church, commencing at 7:30 P. M. sharp. These meetings are well attended by members of the society and strangers, and we are glad to say are doing a great deal of good in the city. All are invited.

DEDICATION.—Sunday the new Catholic church at St Louis, in Marion county, was dedicated by Archbishop Seghers. The ceremonies commenced at 9:30 o'clock, and were followed by high mass. The congregation was a large one, the house being filled to overflowing.

SEVERE STORM.—On Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock a severe hail storm with thunder and lightning occurred on the N. P. railroad at Yelm and Hillhurst stations. Lightning struck a large fir tree, shivering it to pieces and almost burning it up.

DOOMED TO DEATH.

AH LEE TO BE HANGED AT 11 A. M. TO-DAY

Letter from Gov. Thayer Declining to Reprieve the Prisoner.

Decision by Judge Deady in U. S. Circuit Court Denying Application for Writ of Habeas Corpus

AFFECTING SCENE IN THE CELL OF THE DOOMED MAN

Etc. Etc. Etc.

In the United States circuit court yesterday forenoon Judge Deady [illegible] writ of habeas corpus [illegible] the case of Ah Lee, the condemned [illegible].

Judge Deady remarked that since the adjournment of the court last Friday he had received a letter from Gov. W. W. Thayer in which the chief executive of the state had declined to grant a reprieve to the condemned man, stating therein his reasons for so doing. The following is the letter:

Letter of Gov. Thayer

[illegible] have the honor to acknowledge [illegible] in the matter of the application of Ah Lee for a writ of habeas corpus to be directed to B. L. Norden, Esq., sheriff of the county of Multnomah, which is now pending before the United States district court for the district of Oregon, and which notice as I understand was served at your direction. By the terms of the notice I am asked to appear in the proceeding and resist the application [illegible] Ah Lee was indicted by a grand jury of that county for the crime of murder, that he was duly tried by a trial jury in the circuit court, who returned a verdict of murder in the first degree; that sentence of death was thereupon pronounced against him by the court and a warrant issued for his execution to the sheriff of the county, and that he is now awaiting the day fixed in that warrant to expiate the crime of which he stands convicted. I am informed that it is alleged in the petition [illegible] claim that the state court in which the petitioner was tried and convicted had no authority to try him, that it was not legally constituted, that it was only a pretended court, that the act of the legislative assembly of the state of Oregon entitled "An act to provide for the election of the supreme and circuit judges in distinct classes," passed October 17, 1878, is unconstitutional and void for various reasons, and [illegible] that the appointment of the several judges both of the circuit and supreme courts in accordance with the provisions of the act was a nullity [illegible] more than a year and a half [illegible] the entire administration of the judicial department of the state of Oregon during that time are invalid and can be inquired into in a collateral proceeding—an application for a habeas corpus—and before another jurisdiction. It is unnecessary for me to say that I wholly dissent from such a view, and I may very truthfully add that I regard it as quite preposterous. The question as to the construction of the constitution of the state and the validity of its laws necessarily and rightfully devolves upon its constituted authorities, and when the subject matter pertains strictly, as in this case, to the regulation of the internal affairs of the state no other authority on earth has any right to question the determination of its tribunals upon this subject, at least this is my opinion, and I shall strictly adhere to it so long as the political heresies of the day that the United States is a nation and not a federal union do not gain absolute and complete ascendency.

Since the organization of the judiciary of the state under the act of October 17, 1878, no one has ever attempted to challenge the authority of the judges appointed under the act. Every department of the state government has recognized their authority and it has been fully acquiesced in by the people, at least so far as the authority of judges and courts are usually acknowledged.

Important controversies have been adjudicated upon between private parties, and innumerable fines and forfeitures and punishments have been inflicted at the suit of the state, many of the punishments having been in capital cases. Besides the organization is liable to continue indefinitely. At the ensuing June election of the state judges will undoubtedly be chosen in accordance with the provisions of that act. An attempted nullification of it now at the instance of some disappointed suitor and in a court of another jurisdiction in my judgment does not deserve the countenance of any one, and to entertain jurisdiction in such a case under the circumstances referred to my mind, and I say it with due deference and respect, would be an unwarrantable intrusion upon the legitimate prerogative of state authority.

As governor of the state, I approved the act of October 17, 1878 and appointed the judges provided for therein, and now at this late day if I were to concede in any manner that there was such a question as to its validity or as to the legality of those appointments, that might, in any view operate so disastrously to the state, as would a determination that the acts of our courts for more than a year and a half have been a nullity, and that that determination can be had in a court whose authority is derived from another source entirely, I should be unfaithful to the interest of the state and compromise its dignity, and I do not see how I can, directly or indirectly, appear and contest the application as mentioned in the notice served upon me, without, in some measure, making such a concession.

Therefore, while I entertain towards you personally and as judge of the courts over which you have so long and ably presided the highest respect and regard, I shall not in any manner enter any such contest. I shall endeavor to the best of my ability to take care that the laws of the state as interpreted by its courts, where they relate wholly to its domestic concerns, be faithfully executed and leave to those who desire to overthrow them and produce a state of confusion and evil consequences almost incalculable, the whole responsibility of the undertaking.

It having been suggested that, owing to the fact that the application for the writ of habeas corpus is pending in the United States district court, the time of the execution of the sentence of the petitioner ought to be extended until the legality of the imprisonment could be inquired into, I deem it proper to state that if there were any good reasons for granting a reprieve I would allow it unhesitatingly. But to delay the application for the writ of habeas corpus until the eve of the execution and then urge a delay of the sentence in order that a court of another jurisdiction and possessing very limited powers may adjudicate upon a question which involves the legality of the judicial organization of the State of Oregon and in a case where I am not willing to concede that that or any other court outside of our state tribunals has a right to make any such inquiry, especially in an application for a writ of habeas corpus, would in my judgment be incompatible with the dignity of the state, and I feel compelled to refuse any request of that character based upon such reasons. Yours with great respect,

W. W. THAYER,
Governor of Oregon

The Judge then proceeded to deliver his opinion in the case. Its delivery occupied about one hour. The legal phases of the matter were discussed in a very able and exhaustive manner, which clearly showed that the court had been very thoroughly advised on the question. The following is a very brief synopsis of the decision and conclusion of law:

The petition for the writ is based upon the last clause of section 1 of the XIVth amendment, which provides: "No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of the citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws"—and paragraphs 751 to 753 of the revised statutes [illegible]

Judge Deady then reviewed [illegible] the power of the United States in the premises [illegible]

[illegible]

If then the prisoner is restrained of his liberty [illegible] without due process of law, [illegible] by an act of the state in violation of the constitution of the United States [illegible] paragraph [illegible] of the fourteenth amendment and the circuit court [illegible] power and it is its duty to relieve him [illegible]

[illegible]

K. Sheary vs State, 1 Ohio [illegible]

As to the claim of the petitioner that the act under which the judge of the court in which the petitioner was convicted was contrary to the constitution of the state [illegible] court cited the act in session laws of 1878 [illegible] there was not 200 [illegible] the judge [illegible]

[illegible]

The judges appointed [illegible] it is admitted that [illegible]

First—That a person is an officer de facto who enters on his office under color of law [illegible]

Second—That to constitute a de facto officer the [illegible]

Third—That an appointment [illegible]

In the Kings vs Corporation of Bedford Level, 6 East 356, Lord Ellenborough said: "An officer de facto is one who has the reputation of being the officer he assumes to be and yet is not a good officer in point of law."

On this point the court recited a number of authorities.

In [illegible] an officer de facto is [illegible] one who has the color of right [illegible] and on the other an officer de jure who is in all respects legally appointed and qualified to exercise the office.

In Brown vs Lunt, 37 Maine 423, an officer de facto is defined as "one who actually performs the duties of an office with apparent right and under claim and color of an appointment or election," and in Brown vs O'Connell, 36 Conn 432, as follows: "One who has the color of right or title to the office he exercises, one who has the apparent title of an officer de jure."

Having upon this point in question Judge Deady cited numerous authorities and in the course of his comments declared the [illegible] of title to an office is analogous to color of title to land. It does not mean a good title but only one that has the appearance of one. Stark v Starr, 1 Sawyer 20.

After reviewing in an able manner the various phases presented in the case Judge Deady concluded by saying that the petitioner is restrained by due process of law and therefore the application for a writ of habeas corpus is refused.

The Prosecution and Defense.

Now that the die is cast and Ah Lee must expiate his crime on the gallows it may not be improper to bestow a well merited compliment on the attorneys who have labored so indefatigably in behalf of the commonwealth to mete out justice and to vindicate the law. District Attorney J. F. Caples and his efficient deputy M. F. Mulkey deserve great public credit for the ability, tact, perseverance and vigor which have been displayed from the commencement to secure the conviction and execution of the prisoner. Since the filing of the application for a writ of habeas corpus District Attorney Caples has devoted his time in searching authorities and preparing an elaborate argument in defense of the constitutionality of the state circuit and supreme courts, expecting that he would be afforded an opportunity to discuss the points raised before the United States circuit court yesterday morning. However Judge Deady stated that he had fully investigated the question, and that no further argument was necessary.

The attorneys for the prisoner, Messrs. J. W. Whalley and M. W. Fechheimer, and United States District Attorney Mallory, have labored with untiring will to save Ah Lee from the gallows, and in his defense have displayed a high order of legal talent. Especially worthy of favorable mention was the argument before the United States court last Friday by Mr Whalley and Mr Mallory. Every possible effort has been put forth, every legal resource exhausted, but to no purpose. Justice has spoken in tones which cannot be mistaken or disobeyed, the law must be vindicated, society must be protected, and Ah Lee must die.

A Distressing Interview

HOW AH LEE RECEIVED THE CERTAIN ASSURANCE OF DEATH—OTHER MATTERS, ETC.

At 1 o'clock yesterday Jailer Barry, accompanied by an interpreter and reporters, visited Ah Lee to tell him that his last hope had failed and that he must certainly die. The poor wretch was found lying upon a coarse pallet on the floor of his cell, closely watched by two guards. Before a word had been spoken Ah Lee read in the solemn faces of his visitors the dread tale of his fate. He stared fixedly an instant, crouched in terror, moaned low and wildly, then buried his face in his prison bed and wept. Ah Tong, the interpreter, briefly told the prisoner of the final action of the courts and that he could expect neither pardon or respite at the hands of Governor Thayer. The answer came in Chinese, and so broken by sobs, moans and cries that Tong himself could with difficulty understand. They talked half an hour or more, the monotony of their unknown speech varied only by the emotion of the condemned man, and then the party withdrew.

The interpreter was closely plied by reporters to give a full account of his conversation with Ah Lee, but would not do so, saying that they talked about many things—so many his he could not remember what. By a good deal of persuading and the gift of a cigar he was induced to say that Ah Lee had repeated his oft told denial of guilt or of connection with the murder, and that he said further that the guilty man was his cousin, who was now in China, whither he had gone to escape punishment. He also said that he had a wife and children in China who, at his death, would be left without money, and a lively image [illegible] for [illegible] they would die from want he feared, and his most sincere distress was the thought of their helplessness. Tong positively refused to report more of the interview than this.

Ah Lee made a will yesterday bequeathing his body, all on earth the poor fellow has to dispose of, to A. P. D[illegible], the undertaker, for its burial. He expressed great anxiety that after death he would be delivered to the college of surgeons, and was relieved by assurance that the law allowed him to dispose of his body as he saw fit. He will be hanged in the court [illegible] in the presence of about 100 persons, white and Chinese.

Death Warrant.

The following is the death warrant which was drawn up by District Attorney Caples, signed by Judge Bellinger, and now in the possession of Sheriff Norden, who will read it to the doomed man on the scaffold:

STATE OF OREGON, County of Multnomah, } ss.

[illegible] Multnomah County, Oregon, greeting: Whereas in the circuit court of the State of Oregon for the county of Multnomah on the 16th day of July 1879, Ah Lee, indicted under the name of [illegible] Lee Jong and Charley Lee Quong, was duly convicted of the crime of murder in the first degree, and the said court [illegible] it was duly adjudged [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Ah Lee be taken from the place of his confinement, the enclosure of the jail of said Multnomah county, Oregon, and that then and there, [illegible] he be hanged by the neck until he be dead, and that a warrant [illegible] of said circuit court [illegible] Multnomah county [illegible]

Now, therefore, in the name of the State of Oregon [illegible] take the said Ah Lee from the place of his confinement [illegible] between the hours of [illegible] o'clock [illegible]

[illegible]

Witness Hon C. B. Bellinger, judge [illegible] this [illegible] day of March A. D. 1880.

C. B. BELLINGER, Judge.

Attest: [illegible] Clerk.

Confession of Guilt

About [illegible] o'clock yesterday afternoon [illegible] personal friend of Ah Lee was admitted to the cell as the condemned man expressed a desire to have a talk with him. Jailer Barry was present [illegible] all the time, but as he could not comprehend the language of the Celestial, employed [illegible] to post him [illegible] all the conversation which took place. Ah Lee and his friend had quite a long conversation. After the friend had withdrawn the Chinaman who was present was asked as to what Ah Lee and his friend talked. He spoke literally fair English. He said that Ah Lee had told his friend in substance that he had committed the murder, that the Chinese Company had told him [illegible] to kill the boy and that they would see that he escaped. As Ah Lee was ignorant of the fact that one of his countrymen was eavesdropping [illegible] guilt to his bosom friend [illegible] dreaming that it would be repeated.

Frustrated.

Yesterday Ah Lee seemed very restless, and requested [illegible] the guard that he could walk up and down the cell. His guard gave his consent and the doomed man began to pace up and down with a quick, nervous tread. There seemed something suspicious in his action and the guard kept his eye very sharply on the Chinaman. An eight penny nail had been driven into the wall between the stones into the hard mortar. Ah Lee seemed to be watching the nail very closely, which did not escape the notice of Bishop, and once when the prisoner thought he was not observed he grasped the nail by the head and jerked it out from its fastening. But the movement was not quick enough to escape the keen eye of the guard. He demanded the nail but the Chinaman declined to yield it up. His person was searched and the nail at length found shoved under the waistband of his trowsers. When forced to give it up Ah Lee got very angry and used some not very choice profanity. Doubtless he hoped that he might be able to destroy his life in some manner with the nail and thus escape the ignominy of perishing on the gallows.

Restless and Hopeless.

At a late hour last night Ah Lee was visited by an OREGONIAN reporter. He was reclining on a bed in his cell, looking sulky and was not in a communicative frame of mind. His wrists were secured with handcuffs and a chain attached to both ankles. He did not seem the least inclined to sleep and by the nervous restless expression of his eyes showed that the thought of the inevitable fate awaiting him on the morrow weighed heavily on his depressed spirits.

The Militia on Guard

A detail of forty men from the various militia companies of this city, under command of Capt Thos Mountain, senior captain, were on guard last night at the court house and will remain on duty till after the execution to-day. While no trouble is anticipated from the Chinese the governor deemed it prudent to guard against a possible attempt at rescue or interference.

PATRICK.

From Down East

A few days since we had the pleasure of meeting Gen Theodore S. West, one of the most genial and thorough gentlemen it has been our good fortune to meet in this city. It was through the direction and engineering of Gen West that the famous tunnel was cut from Libby prison to liberty, setting free so many Union boys. Gen West is a partner of West Brothers of Philadelphia, manufacturers of the famous ladies' and misses' shoes, and came to this city for the purpose of introducing them. They are acknowledged to be the finest in America. Arrangements were effected with Messrs Champlin & Hollabaugh to act as their agents. Accompanying Gen West was E. H. Lewis, Esq., of the firm of J. S. Turner, manufacturer of gents' extra fine hand and machine sewed boots and shoes, which have a national reputation and are acknowledged as being the best in the American trade. He also disposed of the State right of this brand to the firm of Champlin & Hollabaugh. The first shipment of this famous manufacture will be received in this city in a few weeks. The gentlemen above mentioned were highly pleased with Oregon and were loth to depart even to return home to the garden city of the East.

Beauty draws us with a single hair, according to Pope, but if that hair is the only one on beauty's head, then—well, hardly ever would Alexander P. be right. But a woman as bald as a Call man's joke could transform herself into a Venus by using Madame Rachel's Enamel Bloom. And the best of it is that no one would dream that she did use it, so natural is its effect.

By all means avoid any and all so-called cough syrups, for they are filling more graves with poor mortals who used those nostrums than all the war ever done. Regulate your bowels with Pfunder's Oregon Blood Purifier and your cough will leave you without any further trouble. Ask for it. your druggist has it.

Nothing Short of Unmistakable Benefits

Conferred upon tens of thousands of sufferers could originate and maintain the reputation which AYER'S SARSAPARILLA enjoys. It is a compound of the best vegetable alteratives, with the Iodides of Potassium and Iron, and is the most effectual of all remedies for scrofulous, mercurial or blood disorders. Uniformly successful and certain in its remedial effects, it produces rapid and complete cures of Scrofula, Sores, Boils, Humors, Pimples, Eruptions, Skin Diseases and all disorders arising from impurity of the blood. By its invigorating effects it always relieves and often cures Liver Complaint, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, and is a potent renewer of vitality. For purifying the blood it has no equal. It tones up the system, restores and preserves the health, and imparts vigor and energy. For forty years it has been in extensive use, and is to day the most available medicine for the suffering sick anywhere. For sale by all dealers. Hodge, Davis & Co, Portland, wholesale agents.

NEW YORK, April 19.—Governments quiet; W. U. 105⅞.

The continuance of wet weather seems to have a somewhat depressing effect on general trade matters, and the markets to day afford but very little subject matter for comment. The wool trade drags and the aggregate volume of the movement as yet is light, and though buyers take all that offers quite freely, there is hardly the active inquiry noticed ten days or two weeks ago. Prices range from 25c for inferior to 33½c for the choicest grades. The eastern and California markets are reported rather duller.

The marked decline in the wheat markets abroad and the scarcity of tonnage at this point have about checked all operations in the cereal in the local market. An occasional transaction is noted, but the aggregate is hardly sufficient to establish quotations.

Oats are still in fair request at the prices paid last week.

Provisions are firm at former quotations, with a good demand.

Other articles in the line of domestic produce are in fair request, with a tolerably active trade.

SUICIDE.

A distinguished Scientist once said: "No man with a strong, healthy stomach ever committed suicide, yet many suffer the torments of the damned with dyspepsia when a single bottle of DR. MINTIE'S ENGLISH DANDELION LIVER AND DYSPEPSIA PILLS will give relief, and, if persisted in, cure the worst cases of this distressing trouble. This pill cures torpid liver, biliousness, sallow complexion, foul breath, sick headache, heartburn, pain in side and back, removes pimples from the face, regulates the bowels, is sugar-coated and guaranteed purely vegetable. It acts directly on the coating of the stomach and on the liver; is suited to any climate, wet or dry weather. Beware of imitations; genuine has cut of lion on outside wrapper. Price, 50 cents. Sold by all druggists. Hodge, Davis & Co., Portland, wholesale agents.

How to Save Money.

Instead of going to a doctor, if you have Bright's Disease, Diabetes, pain in back and loins, smarting, inflammation, calculi, brick-dust deposit or any trouble of the kidneys or bladder, buy a bottle of DR. MINTIE'S NEPHRETICUM, the great Buchu Compound. It is the best prescription ever compounded for these troubles. Abrams & Carroll, Wholesale Druggists, say: "We regard Nephreticum as the best Kidney and Bladder Remedy in the market." Woodward, druggist, Portland, Oregon, says: "Everybody speaks highly of it." Childs, druggist, Portland, says: "Sold lots of it; it always does the work." Many have been cured of obstinate kidney complaints after the doctors gave them up. Sold by all druggists. Price $1 00 a bottle, or six bottles for $5. Hodge, Davis & Co., Portland Wholesale Agents

Sir Astley Cooper's Vital Restorative.

The great English remedy—has made more cures of Nervous Debility, Seminal Weakness, Lost Manhood, nocturnal emissions, lassitude inability for mental labor, despondency, and such diseases as are induced by youthful follies and excesses, than all other medicines combined.

It is not a stimulant nor excitant is perfectly safe to take, is not a quack nostrum, and produces results that are wonderful.

Price, $3 a bottle. Four times the quantity, $10. Buy a bottle. It will not disappoint you. Hodge, Davis & Co., wholesale agents.

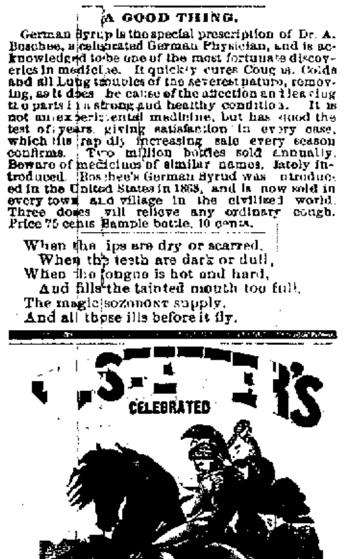
We Challenge the World

When we say we believe we have evidence to prove that Shiloh's Consumption Cure is decidedly the best Lung Medicine made, inasmuch as it will cure a common or Chronic Cough in one half the time, and relieve Asthma, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Croup, and show more cases of Consumption cured than all others. It will cure where they fail; it is pleasant to take, harmless to the youngest child, and we guarantee what we say. Price 10 cents, 50 cents and $1. If your Lungs are sore, Chest or Back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by S. G. Skidmore & Co., druggists, 151 First street, Portland, Oregon.

A GOOD THING.

German Syrup is the special prescription of Dr. A. Boschee, a celebrated German Physician, and is acknowledged to be one of the most fortunate discoveries in medicine. It quickly cures Coughs, Colds and all Lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the cause of the affection and leaving the parts in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidly increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Beware of medicines of similar names, lately introduced. Boschee's German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 1868, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any ordinary cough. Price 75 cents. Sample bottle, 10 cents.

When the lips are dry or scarred,
When the teeth are dark or dull,
When the tongue is hot and hard,
And fills the tainted mouth too full,
The magic SOZODONT supply,
And all those ills before it fly.



Fever and Ague.

The true antidote to the effects of miasma is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This medicine is one of the most popular remedies of an age of successful proprietary specifics, and is in immense demand wherever on this Continent fever and ague exists. A wineglassful three times a day is the best possible preparative for encountering a malarious atmosphere, regulating the liver, and invigorating the stomach.

THE GENUINE

CELEBRATED

Hepatitis or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

CHRONIC AND DIFFICULT DISEASES.

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.

MIDDLE AGED MEN.

There are many at the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and a weakening of the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examining the urinary deposits a ropy sediment will often be found, and sometimes small particles of albumen will appear, or the color will be of a thin milkish hue, again changing to a dark and torpid appearance. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

The Works are fitted with machinery adapted to the turning out of light and very heavy work. The stock of patterns is very extensive and valuable. The blacksmith shop is provided with a large steam hammer and every convenience. The buildings are well and substantially built, conveniently located on the river, with wharves connecting their buildings and boiler shops with the river. These works have facilities for turning out machinery of all kinds superior to any shop north of San Francisco, as they are fitted with large plate rolls, boring mill and machinery of large capacity, all set on solid masonry. Also a large assortment of bar iron and steel, boiler plate, boiler tubes, rivets, tube expanders, tools of all descriptions, brass fittings, steam gauges, etc., etc. The above described property is to be sold as a whole. Said sale is to be made for gold coin in hand, free from all judgment or other liens. For additional description of machinery, etc., connected with the Works, apply to Gilman & Co., Auctioneers, No. 42 First street, Oregon, the assignee, No. 114 First street, Portland, Oregon.

THE NORTH RIVER VALLEY

A Fertile Section of Washington Territory—Fine Field for Industrial Emigrants

NORTH RIVER, W. T., April [illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

As I am receiving many letters of inquiry concerning this so far [illegible] known section of Washington territory, I simply [illegible] the following, believing it will prove of interest to your numerous readers. In previous letters I have given a general description of the North River valley, chances for transportation, roads, lands, &c., some of which it will be necessary now to repeat for the benefit of those who have not seen the letters above referred to. The North river is navigable for boats drawing five feet of water for six miles from its mouth, or to within one-half mile of the first fall, at which point a portage would have to be made of about three miles on account of the falls and a large drift in the river, above which it could be navigated with canoes and light batteaux for some 15 or 20 miles. The river has been explored for some 30 miles above the fall and there is good vacant government land, mostly alder and vine maple bottoms, sufficient for 200 families at the very least. The lower part of this valley is not more than three miles from the falls or eight from Shoalwater Bay. A wagon road could be constructed from the head of navigation at a small expense to any part of the valley above. The soil is

A RICH SANDY LOAM

Deep and entirely free from rock or gravel and will produce all kinds of grain and fruit, except grapes, corn and melons, as well as any place upon the Pacific coast and equally as good in quantity, while there is less danger from late frosts than in localities further inland. The climate is cooler in summer and warmer in winter than in Eastern Washington. Most winters there is but very little snow. During a residence here of 26 years I have never seen ice over four inches thick, and that only during three winters. Many winters ice does not freeze thicker than window glass, while grass remains green the year round. Upon a new range such as the North river bottoms would afford stock would need no feeding whatever. There are thousands of acres of the very best of bottom land now lying vacant in the North river valley, of which a man who understands the business can get an acre in from three to five days time. No land has large timber—nothing but small alders and brush. There are thousands of places upon the coast and further inland already settled up and improved that have no part of the natural advantages of the North river valley.

Shoalwater Bay is acknowledged by seafaring men to be one of the best harbors north of San Francisco. Vessels can enter drawing 18 or 20 feet. Grain and all kinds of produce should be shipped as cheap from here as from Astoria. The estimated cost of freight from Walla Walla to San Francisco is $20 per ton, while the freight has to be handled over some sixteen times. The freight from here to San Francisco at present is but $4 per ton, thus making a difference of $16 to the farmer on every ton of freight shipped, which would in many localities on the North river pay for clearing the land the first year, to say nothing of the lasting benefit and advantage of being close to ocean navigation, of having plenty of timber of the best quality for building and farm purposes, streams of the purest mountain water, and that greatest blessing, the healthiest climate in the world. Such things as

AGUE, CHILLS AND FEVER

Being entirely unknown here. The lower fall on the North river at the head of tide water will furnish power for mills and factories, while this immense valley above can supply them with material. What is now needed most in order to make business and encourage immigration is for some enterprising man with capital to build a good saw-mill at the fall. There is a splendid site now vacant, and plenty of the best of timber. As the valley above settles up and grain is produced, flouring machinery could be added and thus one of the greatest wants of our county be supplied.

A large majority of the people of Pacific county have been, and are at present, engaged in the oyster business, which accounts for the immense amount of valuable land now lying vacant. Another reason why the North river valley has not been settled up before this is that it is unsurveyed and supposed to be partly within the limits of the Northern Pacific railroad grant. This, however, instead of being an injury, I consider as a benefit to men who desire to locate homes. Had the valley been surveyed, it could and no doubt would, have been gobbled up by speculators, so that men wanting homes could not get them. As it is, as soon as a few settlers locate they can hire a surveyor and run a preliminary line up the river fixing section corners, thus enabling them

TO LOCATE CLAIMS,

With the certainty of coming on government land when the valley is officially surveyed. The cost of running such line would be but a trifle. Taking everything together, I can see no good reason why the North river valley should not in a short time be one of the best and most desirable locations on the Pacific coast.

Thousands of people are continually moving out of the mountains to Eastern Washington. It would cost them much less to come here. Goods and everything they will have to buy can be sold much cheaper here, where there is $16 per ton less freight. On everything they have to ship they would save the same amount. The winters not being as severe, the cost of feeding stock would be much less, while, as previously stated, there is abundance of the very best of timber here for building and farm use. There is also an abundance of wild game, such as elk, deer, bear, ducks and geese; the streams abound with fine salmon and mountain trout, while Shoalwater Bay is justly famous for its oysters and many different kinds of shellfish, which, combined, form a bill of fare to suit the most epicurean taste.

There have been a good many men already to look at the North River Valley, but they came generally one or two at a time. While all agree that my descriptions are correct, they say they fear there would not be settlement enough formed to have neighbors soon, schools, etc. If they could all have been here at one time there would have been enough to make quite a thriving little settlement before this. Now to partly obviate this difficulty in the future I would suggest when there are a number of people who think favorably of my description of the North River valley let them get together and pick out some one of their number to represent them and send him to look at the country, in order that as many of these representatives as possible be at Oysterville on the first Monday of May, June, July or August, the sooner the better. I think by so doing there will be no difficulty in settling the North river valley up this summer and thus start what must eventually be one of the most prosperous settlements upon the Pacific coast. Could but a small portion of the tide of emigration which is constantly setting toward eastern Washington be turned to the North river, how great would be the change. Here where now the bear and elk roam in freedom would be seen prosperous [illegible] homes, while the sounds of [illegible] and comforts of prosperity enjoyed [illegible] health would be their [illegible].

In order that people may have [illegible] in coming here I will [illegible] the best route. Astoria may be properly considered the starting point for this place. I make connections [illegible] shall cross from Astoria to Unity on Saturday, coming [illegible] to Oysterville the same day. I have made arrangements with Captain Charles Fisher of the sloop Ellen to leave Oysterville every Monday morning direct for North river, bringing all passengers and freight. [illegible] at the [illegible] kept by Mr. Carruthers. Should [illegible] fail to be in town you should take the mail boat coming down Monday and [illegible] there as far as Bay Center [illegible] further as her next [illegible] Bend, where there is no regular line to North river and seldom any possibility of hiring a conveyance.

It is arranged that if Capt. Fisher fails to leave Oysterville Monday morning he will connect with the mail boat at Bay Center or be there some time during the day. I make this statement in order that persons may be able to get to and from North river with the least possible delay and expense. I am living two and one-half miles from the [illegible] of the river and will do the best I can to show people the North river valley and satisfy them that the above is correct. [illegible] I will make no charge for my time or trouble. In case, however, people are satisfied that they have not been [illegible], I shall expect a reasonable compensation. Persons coming here had best take [illegible] note of the directions I give about the route, so they may have no trouble in getting here.

ISAAC SMITH

ON THE WING

OMAHA, April [illegible]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Our agreeable party leaving Portland on March 21 by the splendid steamer Oregon has been greatly divided and scattered. F. J. Northrup and daughter Ada have gone on to New York. Rev. P. M. Starr, delegate from Oregon to the next general conference of the M. E. Church, will first visit Illinois. M. Isaac Lacey of Salem and Miss Lewis of Portland stop in Iowa. Mr. Millican of Salem, Miss Mary Cooke of Portland, and many others remained in San Francisco. Several of the party found a delightful home at the boarding house of Mrs. Bissotti, 15 Tyler street, where all is order, elegance and comfort.

San Francisco in twenty five years has increased from 50,000 to 300,000 inhabitants. While there I heard the noted Denis Kearney hold forth as sand lot orator. He is quite unprepossessing in appearance, with common dress and colored shirt. He used notes, spoke with much vehemence and extravagance, but nothing vulgar or unbecoming a gentleman was heard. He attributes the fact that 6000 houses are unoccupied in that great city and $80,000,000 in mortgage registry upon the city property, to the monopolies of the rich and the presence of Chinamen. He predicted with great assurance the triumph of the workingmen's party and ultimate exclusion of the Chinese. The former part of his prediction failed and the latter cannot be. The future of the Pacific coast depends too much upon the friendly commercial relations with China, where must exist forever a demand for Oregon products, to have such relations severed by the excited and hasty action of inconsiderate and irresponsible sand lot orators.

At Sacramento, March 30, met Rev. Dr. Bentley, who that day had the sad duty to perform of burying the remains of the noble but eccentric Rev. Thomas Derrick of the Wesleyan Methodist church of Canada. Mr. Derrick had been missionary to British Columbia for a number of years and was now on his way back to Canada, suffering with asthma. On leaving Sacramento on the 29th he seemed as well as usual, but one half hour later he was found dead in one of the little rooms on the Central Pacific car. The body was accompanied back to Sacramento by William Guard, a son of Rev. Dr. Guard of Oakland, and Dr. Bentley, as above stated, engaged to conduct the funeral services.

April 1st the great Central Pacific overland express train was fooled by a stuffed paddy which was placed on the track by mischievous boys. The engineer, forgetful of the day, took it to be a man.

For three days it was snow, snow, snow. It was not deep, but was accompanied by a cold driving wind which kept all in doors, even at stopping places.

At Battle Mountain, a station near Winnemucca, Nevada, we met an old citizen of Portland, Mr. J. M. Blossom. He is with his nephew engaged in general merchandising and looks hale and hearty. From him we learned that the O. P. R. R. Co. have just fitted out a party of surveyors and started them from Battle Mountain toward Oregon on a railroad survey. Battle Mountain is due south from Walla Walla.

At Ogden, April 2d, there came on board our train Mr. John A. Wright of Baltimore, Indian agent of Fort Hall. He had with him Ten Doy, chief of the Shoshones tribe of Indians, and six sub-chiefs of Bannock and Shoshones, namely, Jack Ten Doy, Tassidimit, Grouse Pete, Gibson Jack, Captain Jim and Tyhee. A half breed named Charley Rainy was along as interpreter. Mr. Wright had orders from Washington to bring these Indians to that city for a personal interview with heads of department. Ten Doy is a fine specimen of the noble red man. He is well known throughout Idaho, Montana and Southern Utah as a warm friend of the whites, having saved many lives on the outbreaking of the Bannocks in 1878. He did all he could, first to prevent the war and secondly to cripple those who took part in it. These Indians have more than 2600 followers located on the Fort Hall and Lemhi reservations. The object of their visit to Washington is not known. They seemed perfectly delighted with Uncle Sam's fire horse. It was their first railroad ride. The first tunnel they passed through, the sudden darkness of midnight brought them to their feet in great wonder, if not absolute fright.

We reached Omaha Sunday April 4th. Twenty years ago there was nothing of it of consequence. To day it contains 35,000 inhabitants, and is the focal point of a half dozen railroads. It is a fearfully windy and dusty place. The hotel accommodations are poor and water supply bad and inconvenient. A company has already, in advance of city action, commenced to lay the pipes for a full supply from the Missouri river. When this is done insurance rates will be less and greater improvements follow. Your correspondent has seen no place yet, except San Francisco, with such city like appearance and character as Portland, Oregon.

Literary Fraud

[From the New York Times.]

A Boston firm has with more enterprise than honesty published a volume closely resembling Harper's library edition of George Eliot's works and entitled it "Gwendolen: A Sequel to Daniel Deronda," by George Eliot. It is plainly intended to deceive and has no doubt deceived many persons who do not keep advised of literary movements. A good many others have bought it and read it although conscious of the imposition, because they were anxious to see Gwendolen wedded as she should have been, while knowing that in real life more women are not so wedded. There is an exalted audacity in this literary fraud. When will the Boston house add a sixth act to "Hamlet," in which Ophelia shall appear as the Princess of Denmark?

THE MULLAN ROAD

WASHINGTON, D. C., April [illegible]

[illegible] OF THE OREGONIAN:

[illegible] Washington City on business [illegible] western states and territories I [illegible] General Sherman [illegible] Army [illegible] the past year in reference to the repairing by the troops in Idaho and Montana of the military wagon road surveyed in [illegible] and constructed between [illegible] under my direction, and particularly that portion situate between Camp Coeur d'Alene in Idaho and Fort Missoula in Montana. General Sherman traveled over this road in [illegible] and his own observations thereon reported to the secretary of war led him to recommend its repair, believing that the sites of Camp Coeur d'Alene and Missoula were, as he believed in 18[illegible], two important strategic points that should and in time would from the necessities of the situations be occupied by troops of the frontier.

General Sherman's idea as expressed in his speech to the secretary of war in 18[illegible] was that the troops stationed at Camp Coeur d'Alene and Fort Missoula, after they had completed the buildings necessary for the comfort of the troops, might jointly during the summer months reopen this road by repairing the same, its use having been originally intended for the troops as well as for immigration destined for the extreme northwest.

In order that this proposition might have the official endorsement of the delegates in congress from Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, I drew up a petition to General Sherman requesting him to execute this his own recommendation. All these gentlemen most cheerfully signed the same and submitted it to General Sherman, who considered it favorably and issued the necessary orders for the execution of the work through Generals Sheridan and McDowell. This work has been most creditably performed by Captains Penrose and Mills and Lieutenant Turner of the army, and favorably endorsed by Generals Howard, Wheaton and Sheridan and Colonel Gibson. A report thereof has been made through the usual official channels to congress. For this work the public are indebted to General Sherman, who has always been a staunch friend of the Pacific Coast, who directed it to be done, and to Captains Mills and Penrose and Lieut. Turner and those with them who performed the labor in the field.

While this was in progress I received a copy of a memorial passed by the legislature of Montana petitioning congress to re-open said road and make an appropriation therefor. An official copy of this memorial was referred to the committee on military affairs of the senate. I called on Mr. Randolph, chairman of the committee, asking a favorable report, stating I had no personal interest to serve in asking his attention and that of his committee to this work and of the necessity of a reasonable appropriation as petitioned for; that I believed the same was needed to aid an enterprise of public utility; that I urged it from a feeling of pride in the developing of a work which I had inaugurated and been so long connected with, and a desire to see the road re-opened to travel, which would add to the convenience of the troops in the event of an Indian outbreak in that region and otherwise serve the public interests. I have reason to believe that the delegates in congress, particularly from Oregon, Washington, Montana and Idaho, also strongly urged the same on similar reasons. This committee took up the memorial from Montana, favorably considered the same and authorized Senator Cameron, of Pennsylvania, to report a bill to the senate from their committee, appropriating $20,000 for the repair of the road, to be expended by the secretary of war.

The bill passed the senate some ten or more months ago and is now before the house. Should the bill become a law it would be only right that the officers and enlisted men, who last year did so large an amount of work, as also those who may be similarly detailed this year, should be paid an extra per diem out of this appropriation, to be authorized by the secretary of war. If it passes I will draw up a petition to that effect, and shall request the signatures of the delegates herein named, who I have reason to believe will do all they can in that direction.

My attachment to the people in those territories among whom I spent so many years of my early life and the interest I have always felt in all enterprises that would successfully open up the great northwest to travel and settlement would not permit me to do less in this connection. Yours very truly,

JOHN MULLAN

The Expiring Shriek of State Sovereignty.

[Springfield (Mass.) Republican.]

Judge Field's shriek over the breach which this decision opens in the powers of the states is neither dignified nor wise. He charges that "the states may be degraded to the level of municipal corporations existing at the will of congress" under the rulings of his associates. This does not appear. If any state objects to the supervision of its own elections and the acts of its own officers by the federal power it has only to separate both from any contact with federal elections. No federal officer can interfere with the state election officers of Iowa, for instance, except in the year when the state moves its state elections out of October so as to bring them on the day for the election of representatives in November. Any state can have its elections to itself by having them alone, but when it voluntarily unites them with a national election it brings them within the purview of the national law. Better ground for criticism exists when Judge Field says that the ruling of the court would authorize congress to put a polling officer in a state legislature when the election of a senator was in progress. It undoubtedly would, but this is due not to the court, but to the constitution, when it vested congress with plenary powers over the method of choosing members of both chambers, with a solitary exception as to the places of choosing senators. Any such exercise of power, however, would only be justified by emergencies of the gravest character.

The English Elections

[From the New York Herald.]

Beaconsfield is defeated in the parliamentary elections and his ministry flung out. He is too far advanced in life to recover from such a blow. At the age of seventy six, with his winter weight of years pressing upon him, he cannot expect to return to power, and his sun will go down in clouds and storm. This would be a humiliating end of so brilliant a career. The height to which he has risen from a beginning which had so little promise is one of the marvels of modern politics. For the son of a mere litterateur, and that litterateur a Jew, to have risen to the great position of prime minister is the most wonderful success ever achieved in English politics. But when such a career ends in disaster and humiliation history is too apt to regard it as the final exposure of a consummate charlatan. Beaconsfield has owed his success to all sorts of small dexterities. By flattering the queen with the pompous title of Empress of India, by skillfully playing upon her prepossessions and sense of importance in every possible way, by inflating the John Bull pride of dominion in distant countries, Beaconsfield's political legerdemain has kept him in power during a long administration. His wonderful display of political rockets will merely leave a remembrance of smeared and smoking sticks which drop down at the end of the performance.

The Boston Post says: "Gentlemen who are arranging summer excursions to Europe are reminded that some parts of the United States afford a fine field for the inspection of tourists." But who wants to inspect tourists?

Grant's Hints taken as Profound Maxims of Policy—Progress toward Free Government [illegible]

YOKOHAMA, March [illegible].—[illegible] the heads of departments [illegible] selves chiefly to their administration of national affairs. They may, however, and in some cases do, give special attention to departments with which they were formerly associated. This is especially true with Okuma, late minister of finance, Ito, ex-minister of the interior, and Saigo and Kawamura of the war and navy. The two exceptions mentioned are Inouye and Kuroda, who retain the foreign office and colonies. The former cannot leave his post until the negotiations now pending terminate. The latter remains because the colonial department will soon be abolished and no appointment of a successor is desirable. The new chiefs of the departments are mostly men of distinction but hold a rank not comparable to Sanji.

The government policy remains unchanged in every particular. Chronic agitators, consisting of small bodies of Samurai or former military class, took advantage of a recent reorganization to circulate reports of great radical reforms, proclaiming that the emperor had declared himself favorable to an immediate parliamentary system. This is totally untrue. The emperor and ministers are steadily working toward the fulfillment of constitutional reforms promised by a speech from the throne, but there is no intention of sanctioning a popular legislature until there is a larger diffusion of education and growth of experience. To this end schools are multiplied everywhere and local suffrage assemblies established throughout the empire to familiarize the people with parliamentary methods. There is no likelihood of a representative government for several years. The experiment would invite anarchy, as the best informed among the community frankly admit. The only demand for such extreme progress comes from irresponsible parties who have no interests at stake either way. The threatened distribution of seditious documents on a vast scale, reciting the disappointment of demagogues and calling for mob demonstrations, compels the government to issue reluctantly a new precautionary order to printers and publishers. At the same time arrangements are made for the augmentation of school facilities and increased development of the political capacity of the populace. In discussions of this question in high quarters frequent reference to and much reliance is placed on Grant's opinions as expressed in his interview with the Mikado in August 1879, to the effect that while representative institutions are the true object of government endeavors, great care is necessary to avoid precipitation, as an overhasty step once taken is irretrievable.

A report is current but not fully substantiated that Samesima, envoy to France, presently returns to take control of the department of foreign affairs. In that event Shioda, former sub-commissioner to Russia, goes to France. Yanagiwara, a member of the ancient Kioto nobility, or Kuge, is appointed to Russia and Sweden. He was once envoy to China and later an officer of the Genro In or consultative senate. Nabeshima, the new envoy to Italy, is a member of a comparatively modern order of nobility or Daimio. It is noticeable that several recent diplomatic appointments have been conferred on young nobles.

A superb plot of ground offered as a free gift to the United States for a legation, one of the finest sites in the capital, has been declined with thanks.

Trade increases between Japan and Corea. A new Corean port, Gensan, is visited every two months by a Japanese commercial steamer.

The horse presented by Grant to the Mikado excited admiration by its beauty and splendid action. The horses purchased for the government from Washington also arrived safe and are warmly commended.

The emperor is preparing for a journey to the central and some southern provinces. He will pass some days in the old palace at Kioto.

Japanese trade commissioners have been appointed to visit Persia with a view of opening commercial communications.

The American Question a Secondary Matter to New Complications—China Preparing for War—Social Gossip, etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

HONG KONG, March 23.—The case of Chung How Chow seems very serious, though many Chinese of high station express disbelief that sentence of death will be carried out. There is no satisfactory clue to the mystery of the proceedings. The best attainable evidence indicates that Gen. Tso was the prime mover in recent events. It is now certain that Li Hung Chang was unacquainted with Chung's impending disgrace until the latter had nearly reached Peking. He was preparing congratulatory demonstrations when news of Chung's downfall reached him. Since then the tide of hostility is too strong for any viceroy to withstand. Tsung Li Yamen affects to believe that no cause of offense was given to Russia and intimates a belief that Tseng, now in England, newly appointed to St. Petersburg, will remove all difficulty. All advances are coldly met by the Russian representative at Peking, who is in constant and busy communication with the home government, messengers leaving daily for Kiachta, from which frontier post the telegraph starts. It is noteworthy that Kwo, late envoy to England and France, who showed strong pro-foreign feelings, is now kept in retirement, while the envoy to Berlin, notoriously anti-foreign, is in high favor. The apprehension is frequently expressed that foreigners in Peking will be sacrificed in some sudden outbreak, but there is no proof in support of such idea.

The question of Chinese in America appears entirely swept aside by more important European complications.

Rumors were rife in northern ports not long since that, if Chinese subjects are unjustly treated in San Francisco, the Peking authorities would order the sacrifice of American residents as hostages. All reports on this topic have now ceased. In any event there is no probability of the violation of American treaty rights here.

A ridiculous story is told that Chung How married a Russian lady while in Europe, hence his persecution. There is a concentration of foreign ships of war at Tientsen to await developments in the Chung How case.

The continuance of wet weather seems to have a somewhat depressing effect in general trade matters and the markets to-day afford but very little subject matter for comment. The wool trade drags and the aggregate volume of the movement as yet is light and though buyers take all that offers quite freely there is hardly the active inquiry noticed ten days or two weeks ago. Prices range from [illegible] for inferior to 3[illegible] for the choicest grades. The eastern and California markets are reported rather duller.

The marked decline in the wheat markets abroad and the scarcity of tonnage at this point have about checked all operations in the cereal in the local market. An occasional transaction is noted, but the aggregate is hardly sufficient to establish quotations.

Oats are still in fair request at the prices paid last week.

Provisions are firm at former quotations with a good demand.

Other articles in the line of domestic produce are in fair request with a tolerably active trade.

How Webster's Great Speech was Preserved

The true story of the diamond necklace Daniel Webster gave to Mrs Joseph Gales is said to be this. When Mr Webster made his celebrated reply to Senator Hayne of South Carolina, Mr Gales, then an editor of the National Intelligencer, undertook to report it, at the request of the orator, who assured Mr Gales that the speech would not be more than half an hour long. The editor was busy, but he thought he could spare time to take down and write out so short a speech. But as Mr Webster was ascending the steps of the Capitol on the morning that he was to speak he met Judge Story, who told him that it was a good opportunity to give his views upon the constitution. Webster acted upon the suggestion and instead of speaking for half an hour he spoke for three hours. Mr Gales, under the spell of the orator, wrote on perfectly unconscious of the lapse of time. But when he came to look over his notes he found they were so voluminous that he would never have time to transcribe them. The speech not to appearing in the Intelligencer in due time, Mr Webster called upon the editor at his house, who told him that the speech was so long and his time so much occupied that he feared he could not find time to write it out for publication. While the orator was expostulating with the editor and endeavoring to urge him to the work, Mrs Gales appeared and said she thought she could write out the speech, as she had been in the habit of assisting her husband in transcribing his notes. She undertook the task and in two days sent Mr Webster his speech in full. A magnificent diamond necklace was the rich reward of the Massachusetts Senator. And thus was preserved to American literature the masterpiece of our greatest orator.

Brother Gardner's Lime Kiln Club

[From the Detroit Free Press]

"One day las fawl" began the president as Elder Toots settled back for his usual nap "I wer' passin' up Antoine street, an' I 'seed Cutwater Smith a settin' on de fence. In de airly winter I passed that way agin an' I saw him huntin' de streets for wood. De oder day I had bizness wid him, an' I foun' do fam'ly out o' fewel, out o' purvishuns, an' wuss off fur clothes dan my ole cow ever was fur a blanket. I knew what would happen de fust time I saw him roostin' on de fence. I tell ye, cull'd men, de man who roosts on de fence in de fawl will hug a old stove and look into an empty cupboard all winter. Dis world owes no man a libin'. If any member of dis club has got dat ideah under his kinks he wants to wallop it out right away. What de world owes a man, an' what it gibs to ebery man, is a fair chance to airn his bread an' butter. I hear people groaning out dat luck is agin em. Out upon luck! If luck means anythin' it's steady work and takin' care of de shillins. Oder folks am whinin' aroun' dat dey hev no show. No show in dis big world! Why, eben de flies an' skeeters hev a show! Ebery man has a chance to reach up, but when he makes a saloon his headquarters he's got to reach down. I doan' go much on public charity myself, but when I am gibin, I'd sooner gib to a wid awake thief than to a whinin' complainin' loafer. De curtain will now be lifted on de reg'lar time table of bizness."

Great Local Butter and Cheese Mart.

[From the Chicago Inter Ocean]

Elgin is recognized as the best butter market in the Union, and the sales made on cheese are now unusually large. During the month of March 255,072 pounds of creamery butter were sold on the board of trade and 717,661 pounds of cheese. These products sold for $174 805 03. This is a pretty good sum to disburse among the farmers in a single month. Since January 1 the sales have reached 1 925 831 pounds of cheese and 915,789 pounds of butter, for which $434,604 95 were paid to the dairy men. With such sums of money coming into their possession the dairy farmers in this region are contented.

A Cooking Belle

[From the New Haven Register]

An up-town belle tired of living an aimless plaque painting life has actually taken to cooking. She dumped in the contents of her rouge box in her first pan of biscuit instead of saleratus to be sure but the beautiful rose tint it imparted to the fruit after it was baked amply atoned for the error. It was ornamental cooking merely. It wasn't intended for dietetic purposes.

Compensatory Damages

[From the Turner Falls Reporter

He had broken his promise to marry the girl and her father wanted a money consideration to help heal a wounded heart. The young man said he would consider a reasonable proposition. "Well then" said the irate father who was seeking justice for his daughter. "Young man how does a dollar and a half strike you"

THE PROTECTION SWINDLE

How it is Organized and Maintained—A System of Reciprocal Rapine

From the Chicago Times

The recent treatment of the [illegible] in the house brings once more [illegible] the fact that the tariff is a [illegible] system [illegible] system of [illegible] It is a [illegible] the [illegible] The paper manufacturers [illegible] the paper [illegible] be withdrawn. The reasonableness of the request is too evident to be denied. What then? Is the request granted? Not at all. Why? Because the iron and steel monopolists stand with the [illegible] that it will not [illegible] put print paper on the free list must at [illegible] endanger the whole spoliation system. They must all stand or fall together. And they have their vigilant representatives in a body which ought to represent the whole people. They have on the very committee that has such questions in charge a man who represents Pennsylvania iron masters first and the people afterward. They have on the same committee another man who brazenly demands that all the protected interests stand together. And so the iron monopolists the woolen monopolists and all the rest rush to the rescue of the paper monopolists who could not stand for a moment on the merits of their own case.

The power of such an alliance for purposes of spoliation is not to be despised. There is not a Pennsylvanian of either party in congress who dares to brave political death by opposing the combination or disregarding its wishes. From almost every part of the country men go to congress who believe that their political life depends upon their subserviency to the protected monopolists. Some of them profess to be friends of commercial freedom in a general way but when they come to act they find the hand first of some local monopoly and then of the whole combination heavy upon them. There is Mr Gibson of Louisiana for instance. It is said that he is for free trade provided that the Louisiana sugar planters are protected. But as a member of the ways and means committee he dares not touch the paper monopolists the steel rail monopolists or any of the rest for fear they will turn and rend the sugar planting monopolists who will wreak their vengeance by consigning him to his political grave. Whoever is a protectionist in one thing must needs support the spoliation system as a whole no matter what his private convictions of right and public policy may be.

What is to be thought of a system which thus necessarily transforms representatives of the people into representatives of special interests and privileged classes? What is to be thought of a system which is necessarily maintained by conspiracy, and which for the sake of self preservation sustains the most indefensible and outrageous monopoly and extortion. What is to be thought of a system which makes possible the spectacle of two members of congress supposed to represent the people appearing before the most important committee of the house to defend a monopoly in which they have a greater pecuniary interest than any other two men in the country declaring that they deem it their first duty to defend their private interests and voting in accordance with such declaration. What is to be thought of a system which surrounds the popular legislative chamber and its principal committee with the most demoralizing and corrupting influences of the lobby? This is to be thought: That it is a system of rapine chicane conspiracy and corruption, which ought not to be tolerated in any country and which is as utterly out of place in a country which boasts of free representative institutions as the devil would be in heaven. It is high time for the victims of tariff spoliation—farmers laborers and all save a compact regiment of licensed extortioners—to cast off this system which has come down to us as a bad legacy from medieval barbarism.

Horace Greely as an Editor

Charles Longden long attached to the Tribune staff thus writes of Horace Greeley: He was a man for whom it was a pleasure to work. You thought as you wrote, of how he would like this sentence or that illustration and you were sure of a kind, a competent and catholic judge. He did not always praise; indeed, he sometimes found a great deal of fault but he did so upon principles which it was impossible to dispute with an intelligence which commanded respect, and according to universally accepted canons. He had one great merit as an editor—he comprehended precisely what a leading article should be. I do not mean to say that he had any peculiar notions; he preferred that a writer should be himself, say what he thought and say it in his own way. If he could not do this after a fashion commanding readers and respect, Mr Greeley thought that the man had mistaken his vocation, and advised him to try farming or some other promising enterprise. An editorial writer dealing mainly with the manager, had but little to do with Mr Greeley unless that writer happened to make a blunder. Then he heard from the little inside room out of which the chief would issue in a state of wrath worthy of the gods.

Thus it will be seen that whoever might be the managing editor of the Tribune, with whom we were mainly brought in contact, it was Mr Greeley who really governed and shaped the sheet. There were considerably long periods during which he did not write at all. Often he would be absent from the office for several weeks. Then he would come back and for a little while fill the whole editorial page, and again he would disappear. But he was always the editor of his own newspaper when he pleased to be. If he found it taking a direction of which he did not approve, there was trouble, and sometimes sore trouble the particulars of which do not concern the public. More than once especially during the difficult days of the rebellion he brought the Tribune round with a sharp turn. In the mere matter of having his own way there never was an editor in-chief more positive and self asserting. Considering how he impressed his personality upon the newspaper, I do not so much wonder at the notion of some of his most ancient readers that all the articles which were particularly brilliant must have been written by himself.

Blaine for Vice President

[Washington dispatch in Cincinnati Commercial]

There has been a good deal of talk of late among the Grant people of putting Blaine on the ticket with Grant. A republican congressman an intimate friend of Mr Blaine said that this was the sheerest nonsense in the world that there was no possible or impossible contingency in which Mr Blaine would go on the tail of a ticket with any man. He said that this was not the first time the opportunity to go on the ticket with General Grant had been offered to Mr Blaine that in 1872 Mr Blaine had been approached and asked to take the nomination for vice president and that this was done at the instance of General Grant himself who was very anxious for Blaine to run on the ticket with him and that Blaine very positively declined although at that time Mr Blaine was very far from occupying the commanding position in politics that he does now. The member said the idea that the Grant influence could undertake to give Blaine a first mortgage on the presidential nomination for 1884 was also ridiculous.

The political books in the portion of the library of Chief Justice Chase left by him at Janesville Ohio are advertised for sale. There are said to be many valuable works among them some in relation to the anti-slavery history of the country now out of print.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS

A Carson Nevada young man who recently went to Candelaria, Columbus district in search of fortune writes back to his father that he has done well but weakens the effect by adding "I will be at home next Sunday. Meet me at the old [illegible] house with a blanket or a whole pair of trowsers with you. I have a hat."

The total tonnage moved east across the Mississippi increased between 1870 and 1878 from 2 [illegible] tons to [illegible] tons an increase of [illegible] per cent. During the same year (1878) that the east bound tonnage was [illegible] tons that southward bound to St Louis by river was 171 [illegible] only one twentieth part of the eastward freight.

"Oh I can't shoot can't [illegible]" he said when twitted about his archery. "Give me that bow" he [illegible] snatching it from Julia's hands. "Now [illegible] striking an attitude "[illegible]" "Yes" said Julia's friend "that's the question." "You hateful thing," said Julia with an Italian sunset face "[illegible] I'll never speak to you again." But no doubt the innocent blunder of Julia's friend will have its effect.

TILDEN'S INCOME TAX

A Ghost That Stands in the Way of a Democratic Nomination

[Correspondence of the New York World]

A very clear headed member of the national committee who is [illegible] under my [illegible] remark [illegible] that it would be very unwise for the democracy to propose to the country to choose [illegible] as president in 1881 who could [illegible] be the known representative or agent of any person now under a heavy prosecution no matter whether the prosecution [illegible] for defrauding the government out of [illegible] income tax. Of the [illegible] tax prosecution against Mr Tilden he said that he knew nothing. He only knew that for some three years the government has been carrying on the prosecution. Before Mr Tilden himself or any [illegible] who can be described as Mr Tilden's candidate can be safely made the democratic candidate it seemed to him said this member of the committee essential that the income tax prosecution should be stopped in some way. "For," he added, "what will be the democratic attitude in the canvass if it be not stopped?" And worse yet, what would be the attitude of Mr Tilden or any person regarded as his candidate, if either should be chosen president and this prosecution still be in existence, to be pressed or to be discontinued by the executive? This member of the committee furthermore stated that, although he had no information about the facts on which the prosecution of Mr Tilden was based, yet the prosecution had always seemed to him to be largely a partisan weapon taken up three years ago by the stalwarts in the belief that Mr Tilden would be the Democratic nominee in 1880, and intended to be used then against him. But the prosecution was before the courts nevertheless as a 'government' prosecution to be managed and directed by officers who are under the control of the president, and of course it would be most unseemly for Mr Tilden or his representative as president to be conducting, with power to discontinue a prosecution against Mr Tilden. This committeeman was clearly of the opinion that if Mr Tilden means to urge himself as a candidate for president or to try to dictate the choice of some candidate who shall be his representative Mr Tilden should and must immediately press into court and bring the income tax prosecution to an end.

APPREHENSIONS OF DANGER

The Nomination of Grant thought Certain to Endanger Close Congressional Districts

[Special to the New York Tribune]

WASHINGTON April 2 — Among the political signs apparent in Washington just now is the fear expressed by a number of republican congressmen who represent close districts that if Gen Grant receives the nomination at Chicago their districts will be carried by the democrats next fall. Mr Butterworth of Ohio who represents the first district of that state, comprising a number of wards in Cincinnati and several townships in Hamilton county said yesterday that if Gen Grant was nominated his district would surely elect a democratic congressman. Mr Butterworth frankly declared that he would not think it worth while to stand as a candidate next fall in that contingency. He went further and asserted that the republicans would lose three other congressional districts in Ohio if Grant should be the republican candidate for president. The district represented by Mr Butterworth is a very close one. In 1876 Saylar (democrat) carried it by 670 majority and in 1878 Mr Butterworth was elected by 720 majority over Saylar.

The 2d Ohio district which comprises a number of Cincinnati wards and several townships of Hamilton county is also very close. In 1878 Governor Young (republican) was elected by less than 1000 majority and in 1876 Banning (democrat) was declared elected by less than 100 majority. The republicans could not lose four congressional districts in Ohio which they now hold next fall without losing also the electoral vote of the state.

Shabby Tactics in Relation to the Northern Pacific Railroad

WASHINGTON April 9 — The sub committee of the house Pacific railroad committee took adverse action to day on the bill to extend the time for the completion of the Northern Pacific railroad ten years from the date of the expiration of the charter in July next. This may not necessarily be regarded as the sentiment of the full committee. The position of the democrats on the sub committee toward this bill appears to be predetermined hostility and they declined to permit any extension of time but pressed the vote on the ten years bill resulting in the adverse action of to-day. The friends of the Northern Pacific are hopeful that the senate will pass the bill fixing six years period of extension and that it will be favorably received by the house. This bill has given rise to considerable speculation and it is said that a pool has been formed to bear down Pacific railroad stocks. It was expected that the bill offered by Chalmers of Mississippi last week would have the effect to depress the stock. [illegible] reported by the sub committee and has never been considered by the full committee with whom its chance for favorable consideration is poor as the story in circulation to-day was that a pool which had been organized to sell Northern Pacific short on the basis of the expected adverse action of the committee [illegible] disappointed and that a large [illegible] because the [illegible] went [illegible]

Postoffice Salaries in France

From the New York Times

[illegible] more striking than the meagre [illegible] salaries [illegible] France [illegible] postal service [illegible] an annual [illegible] $400 [illegible] $1500 [illegible] the clerks employed in the central office [illegible] year. The [illegible] postmasters [illegible] ing from $1[illegible] in the large cities like Marseilles or Lyons to $100 in the small towns. So much for the moderate sums which are [illegible] the higher classes of functionaries to whom the term agent is exclusively applied. The pay of the subagents is of course much lower. The wages of mail route messengers for instance range from $[illegible] to $[illegible] a year those of letter carriers in cities from $1[illegible] to $3[illegible] and in the rural districts from $8[illegible] to $150. As regards postmasters it should be said that an addition is practically made to the salaries above named owing to the regulation which compels them to live in the building where their offices are situated and of which the rent is paid by the government.
